

INSTRUCTIONS

When relating to internationals, we unconsciously adopt a position of how we see ourselves in relation to them. This governs not only how we approach them, it also shows them how we feel about them. In order for our friendships to blossom we need to communicate the right things through our inner attitude.

There are five picture cards, each representing a different model of friendship between a local person and an international visitor. There are yellow, blue and green cards. One of each colour is associated with each picture.

Yellow describes the local person's view of the relationship
Blue describes the international's view of the same relationship
Green gives an assessment of the model of friendship described

By reading the statements and discussing them in pairs or groups, try to match the statements to each picture.

TIPS: you will find it helpful to place the yellow statements first, then blue then green. Read the statements carefully. Although some may appear similar, there are clues in the wording to help you place them correctly.

INSTRUCTIONS

When relating to internationals, we unconsciously adopt a position of how we see ourselves in relation to them. This governs not only how we approach them, it also shows them how we feel about them. In order for our friendships to blossom we need to communicate the right things through our inner attitude.

There are five picture cards, each representing a different model of friendship between a local person and an international visitor. There are yellow, blue and green cards. One of each colour is associated with each picture.

Yellow describes the local person's view of the relationship
Blue describes the international's view of the same relationship
Green gives an assessment of the model of friendship described

By reading the statements and discussing them in pairs or groups, try to match the statements to each picture.

TIPS: you will find it helpful to place the yellow statements first, then blue then green. Read the statements carefully. Although some may appear similar, there are clues in the wording to help you place them correctly.

INSTRUCTIONS

When relating to internationals, we unconsciously adopt a position of how we see ourselves in relation to them. This governs not only how we approach them, it also shows them how we feel about them. In order for our friendships to blossom we need to communicate the right things through our inner attitude.

There are five picture cards, each representing a different model of friendship between a local person and an international visitor. There are yellow, blue and green cards. One of each colour is associated with each picture.

Yellow describes the local person's view of the relationship
Blue describes the international's view of the same relationship
Green gives an assessment of the model of friendship described

By reading the statements and discussing them in pairs or groups, try to match the statements to each picture.

TIPS: you will find it helpful to place the yellow statements first, then blue then green. Read the statements carefully. Although some may appear similar, there are clues in the wording to help you place them correctly.

INSTRUCTIONS

When relating to internationals, we unconsciously adopt a position of how we see ourselves in relation to them. This governs not only how we approach them, it also shows them how we feel about them. In order for our friendships to blossom we need to communicate the right things through our inner attitude.

There are five picture cards, each representing a different model of friendship between a local person and an international visitor. There are yellow, blue and green cards. One of each colour is associated with each picture.

Yellow describes the local person's view of the relationship
Blue describes the international's view of the same relationship
Green gives an assessment of the model of friendship described

By reading the statements and discussing them in pairs or groups, try to match the statements to each picture.

TIPS: you will find it helpful to place the yellow statements first, then blue then green. Read the statements carefully. Although some may appear similar, there are clues in the wording to help you place them correctly.